Associated Chambers Gather at Alhambra

The first meeting of the year of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of the San Gabriel valley was held at Alhambra Tuesday evening with 200 present. J. L. Matthews, of this city, presided for the first time as the new president of the association. Richard W. Pridham, president of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce, Speaker Frank F. Merriam, of the California legislature and Robert Muckler, vice-president of the Bank of Italy of Long Beach, were the principal speakers on the program. Committees rendered reports on different phases of development and conservation affecting the San Gabriel valley.

Richard Pridham, president of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce, told the gathering that he had been observing the associated chambers for many years. He assured the support and co-operation of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce in the vast program of flood control, conservation and the road building which the associated chambers have fostered. He said that as late as 1909 there was not a square foot of asphalt, concrete or macadam roads in the county outside of the incorporated areas. He pointed out that co-operation between communities was bringing about the construction of the most complete system of roads in the world in Los Angeles county.

Speaker Merriam of Long Beach was introduced by Senator Herbert Evans of Monrovia. Mr. Merriam discoursed on the work of the legislature. He said that 2047 bills were introduced in the last legislature, 998 were passed and 400 were signed by the governor. The reason so many bills are submitted is because the people want them, he said. Sixty bills were submitted from Long Beach in the last legislature and 200 from the city of Los Angeles.

The speaker called attention to two measures to be submitted to the voters which were before the legislature. They are the $20,000,000 bond issue for veterans' welfare and $8,000,000 for state and university buildings. Of this amount $3,000,000 would be used for university buildings at Berkeley, $3,000,000 for university buildings in Los Angeles, $1,250,000 for state buildings in Los Angeles and $1,250,000 for state buildings in Sacramento.

William Fisher, a prominent official of the Southern California Edison company, and one of the most convincing speakers in the county, made an earnest appeal for the more intensive preservation of the our mountain water sheds from fire through protective work by federal, state and county authorities.

Hugh Pomeroy, secretary of the regional planning commission, told of progress with the latest metropolitan sewer district, number 7. B. M. Reafor, executive secretary of the Alhambra chamber of commerce, told of plans for the California Fruit exhibit at Alhambra, January 21-31.

Supervisor Cogswell spoke for a few minutes, complimenting the association on the work accomplished and the program contemplated.

Committees reporting were the roads committee, Frank Wheeler, Claremont, chairman; industries, Frank Wood, Monrovia, chairman; fire prevention and forestry, J. M. Paige, Pomona, chairman; flood control, D. J. Shultis, Baldwin Park, chairman.

Mr. Wheeler outlined the program of his committee for the future and the work accomplished in the past. Mr. Wood urged the coordination of the various cities and communities in bringing industries to the San Gabriel valley. Gridironing of the mountains and complying in every other way with the recommendations of the board of fire review were given as the most effective program of fire prevention by Mr. Paige in his report. Mr. Shultis stressed the necessity of immediate construction work on the San Gabriel dam.

Special entertainment features were presented during the course of the evening. Robert Rasmussen sang several solos, with Mrs. Henry Damerel of Covina, at the piano. The community singing was led by Joseph Cotes, cashier of the First National bank of Covina. Fifteen members of the Covina chamber of commerce were present.

During the course of his opening address J. L. Matthews, the new president of the association, said:

I hold in my hand tonight the first official call issued for the organization of this body; it is dated, Azusa, July 29, 1914, addressed to some twenty men. From this small beginning this organization, through its unselfish endeavors, has steadily grown in influence by its established policy of supporting only projects of major importance to the growth and prosperity of the San Gabriel valley and the county, working at all times through the regularly and legally constituted bodies, namely, boards of supervisors and the heads of the various departments of the county government. We have at all times refrained from making inconsequential requests or demands of the county officials and consequently we have received at their hands courteous treatment and prompt and favorable action.

It is with pride that we can review the splendid work which has been done in the past by this organization of true and loyal citizens, who have given of their time, their money, and their ability in promoting the civic growth and prosperity of the San Gabriel valley. I am certain that the citizen is prone to look to a county board of supervisors for plans and suggestions, when in all important matters the board is looking to groups of citizens to lead the way, to initiate and plan such projects. This during the past eleven years has been the function of this organization and we can point with pride to the part we have played in the construction of main arteries of travel through our valley and the promotion of the great canyon road at Azusa, from the mouth of the San Gabriel leading into the vast-nesses of our mountain range which in itself is the forerunner of our first real reforestation, water conservation and flood control.

We have fostered reforestation and protection of our mountain cover. Realizing that we cannot rid ourselves of the bare slopes unless we can not only plant but guard, and we cannot keep the floods from their wild mission of devastation unless the forest cover is there to retard in nature's most desirable way. Eleven years ago the county had a forestry department, an endemic infant, which had neither the support of the board of supervisors or the confidence of the public. The records will show that at that time less than $15,000 a year was appropriated in the county budget for its support. It, however, had a trained man of indomitable courage and vision at its head—we refer to the late Stuart J. Plinham. Our organization got behind this hopeless task, created confidence in the program offered by Mr. Plinham, secured the goodwill and support of the supervisors until today it is a functioning department that has no equal of its kind in the United States. The present acting forester is Mr. Spence Turner, Mr. Plinham's able assistant, who has already proved himself a worthy successor of his late chief.

The great annual county fair which has just closed at Pomona was the direct outgrowth of a thought from this association. It was first advocated at a meeting of this association held in La Verne eight years ago, and the seed sown there germinated and took root in the minds of the people of the county, and its success and perpetuity is now assured.

It is with no spirit of boasting, but a cold reiteration of an acknowledged fact, when I state that the imperial county of Los Angeles would have today no program for flood control had it not been for the activity of this organization and its associated chambers. The rural and harbor districts of Los Angeles county stood alone in the support of the first bond project for flood control. We won by a small margin of 52 votes against the united opposition of every organization and newspaper in the city of Los Angeles. Our only support at that time was a united country press and the almost unanimous approval to the project of the citizens of Long Beach, who sought protection for their harbor. A large portion of this bond issue was spent in the building of flood channels, river and wash straightening, and the construction of the Devil Gate dam, the dam in the San Dimas, and the Live Oak dam. This work was done under the direction of J. W. Reagan, chief engineer of the county flood control department. This work was well planned and the chief engineer was aided by the active support of this organization at all times and his work was repeatedly commended by the board of supervisors.

With the recital of these projects any organization could rest with credit upon its laurels, but I have yet to recount the greatest of all projects, the great dam in the San Gabriel canyon, costing in excess of $25,000,000, with an additional expenditure of $10,000,000 to be incurred in the construction of the Pacoima, Puddingstone, Santa Anita and other minor dams. The San Gabriel dam, which when completed will be the greatest undertaking of its character in the world, was conceived by this organization during the presidency of D. J. Shultis of Baldwin Park. To many of us at that time it appeared to be a wild dream, one that might be undertaken by our children or even our grandchildren. However, the thought took root. The project received the endorsement of the county's foremost master of great enterprises, Harry Chandler of the Los Angeles Times. It also received the hearty support of the managing editor of the Los Angeles Examiner. Following this the great chamber of commerce of Los Angeles endorsed the movement and within thirty days every organization of importance in the city and county of Los Angeles was behind it. It was in some respects the most remarkable bond election ever conducted, this great issue of $35,000,000 receiving a united majority of 8 to 1. This briefly is the record of the associated chambers, the work accomplished by a body of twenty-one unselfish, untiring and patriotic men, having behind them the support of many local chambers.

Buy across the Counter

WHEN you buy across the counter in the stores of this town, you are using good business judgment. Why? There are many reasons, but one of the most important is this:

You can buy what you want at the price you wish to pay! You are not obliged to accept "something just as good," because you are in a position to compare values and make your own selections.

When you trade at home you are helping your friends to help you! And there is no finer thing in life than neighborly co-operation. It always pays—in happiness and satisfaction as well as dollars and cents.

Walnut Packing House Is Rushing

The 1925 walnut season opened in full blast Monday morning, September 14, when Secretary C. D. Wolfinger states that sixty-two women and thirty-nine men started work. Mr. Wolfinger advises that hundreds of pickers are now pretty generally on the job and that walnuts are coming in at the rate of over one hundred and ten tons each day, which keeps the weigher more than busy. Also the cracker is kept diligently at his job of cracking and grading these nuts, sack after sack, as they come in so many at a time.

President Seymour Watts says that the association now has approximately seven thousand acres of walnuts signed up in the association and that there will be about one thousand or more young trees which will soon come into bearing and which will probably be listed with the association.

"The association with its 373 members," says Mr. Watts, "never was in better shape than now; never better prepared to serve its members and to conduct the business of marketing the nuts than now."

The walnut harvest for 1925, estimated at 3000 tons, shows a remarkable increase over that of last year when the local packing house handled 2480 tons. On Tuesday evening they had already shipped twelve carloads of good nuts.

Puente and Covina districts boast a quality of nuts this year that is above the average standard quality, while a number of neighboring districts find that though their crop is larger the quality is somewhat below what they had anticipated.

Of course with so many families coming into the valley to harvest this walnut crop we have many school children in the district that must be cared for since our school law requires that every child of school age must attend public school at least four hours each day. In keeping with this school law a part time school has been provided at the Bassett school for a great number of the children, while others are being cared for at West Covina school. Buses are provided to go around through the walnut district, gather up these children to start school at 7:45 a. m. and return them to their homes at 11:55 a. m., thus leaving them ample time to assist their parents in the harvesting of the nuts.—Puente Journal.

Women's College To Be Located at Claremont

That Claremont, which is eleven miles east of Covina, is to be the seat of a number of colleges instead of a single college, became known recently at a banquet given in Los Angeles when Dr. James Arnold Blaisdell, president of Pomona college, announced the gift of $500,000 in assets by Miss Ellen Scripps of La Jolla towards the reorganizing of a Scripps college for women. This latest gift of half a million dollars added to $250,000 given last year by Miss Scripps, creates a sum of three-quarters of a million dollars set aside for the development of a new institution to meet the educational demands of fast-growing Southern California.

Scripps college for women is the first link in a projected group of colleges now planned, with Pomona as a nucleus. Although final arrangements have not definitely been made, President Blaisdell has said that in the near future a holding company will be organized for the promotion and expansion of the "group-college" plan.

President Blaisdell is now preparing for his departure to Europe on a year's investigation at the request of the Pomona college board of Trustees.

Miss Ellen Scripps, whose gift assures the first step in the development of the new plan, has been a constant friend of the college. Last year she purchased additional acreage to be used in the development of the colleges and the year before she made it possible for the college to secure the Marcus E. Jones horarium, the largest collection of southwestern plants in the United States.

Winter Gasoline Makes Hit With Local Motorists

Announced in large space newspaper advertisements, with posters at service stations and garages, and with signs on tank trucks, new winter Red Crown gasoline was placed on sale throughout the Pacific coast September 29th.

Red Crown gasoline, sold through the familiar red, white and blue pumps at Standard Oil stations and dealers, has been the leader in the gasoline market ever since the public took to motoring. New winter Red Crown retains the uniform quality of Red Crown gasoline, it is standard, but in addition is manufactured to meet winter driving conditions. When mornings and evenings are cold and snappy, many of us have experienced the inconvenience and drain on the battery caused by difficulty in starting. With new winter Red Crown one impulse from the starter and the engine starts instantly.

Furthermore, many gasolines contain heavy fractions which will not vaporize under winter driving conditions. This not only results in a waste of some 10 per cent of the fuel, but causes dilution of the lubricating oil in the crankcase and tends toward higher repair bills. These injurious heavy fractions have been eliminated from new winter Red Crown. With this fuel there is no waste and no dilution of the lubricating oil.

Attracted by the advertising, and favorable reports of friends, thousands of new users are experiencing the easy starting, smooth acceleration, high power and mileage characteristic of new winter Red Crown. —(Authorized).

Former Rum Dealer's Home Yields Liquor

In a raid at the house of John Shepek on Valley boulevard near Puente, Captain Bond of the sheriff's dry squad and a force of his officers Monday seized one of the largest quantities of liquor ever found here in one house.

Shepek was at one time owner and operator of a big liquor house in Los Angeles and will endeavor to recover the liquor seized on the ground that it is pre-war stuff.

Taken in the raid were 453 quarts of assorted liquor including rock and rye, Old Horse, John Burke, Glasgow Scotch, and numerous other imported and assorted liquors.

The Shepek residence is the large stucco house located in an orange grove on the north side of the boulevard, between Puente and Walnut.

Baptist Church in Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the First Baptist church was held at the church last Wednesday evening. About one hundred sat down to a fine supper prepared by the ladies of the church. Others came in later.

After the banquet, the pastor, Rev. C. G. Mosher, called the meeting to order and after a brief resume of the year's work called for the reports of the different officers of the church and societies connected with the church. The reports showed a good degree of prosperity in every department of church activity. The financial reports were gratifying, showing that all bills had been met and a small balance on hand. The report of the Ladies' Aid and of the Men's Brotherhood were especially well received. After the reports, the following officers were named for the ensuing year:

Deacons, Waldo Smith, G. W. Mitchell, John McCune; trustees for two years, L. J. Barker, Sam Trout, L. A. Bowdway; church clerk, Mrs. Pardon Head; treasurer, Miss Lucy Matthews; Sunday school superintendent, Miss Mary Funk; grade superintendent, Mrs. W. B. Fleet; advisory board, Messrs. Oscar Miller, A. P. Risley, Martin Holman, H. R. Spangler, A. G. O'Brien.

The missionary and other committees will be appointed by the pastor later. A rising vote of thanks was given to the ladies for their bountiful supper. The spirit of the gathering was harmonious and optimistic, and the assembly adjourned to go out for a new year's work with courage and resolution.

Tucker Has Prints Hung at Exhibition

C. W. Tucker, local photographer, had seven prints listed in the catalogue of the International Exhibition of Pictorial Photography, held at the provincial exhibition of British Columbia, New Westminster, Canada, in September. Five, in the pictorial class, were entitled "The Explorer's Dream," "They Bow Their Heads at Night," "A Study in Glasses," "Discussion," and "Silence." Two, in professional portrait class, were "Mrs. L." and "Chaw Geon."

These subjects are all local to Covina. At the Canadian national exhibition, held at Toronto, also in September, Mr. Tucker was honored by having a portrait of Mrs. L. M. Lewis, "A Dream With Photogravures," hung.

Gloria Swanson in "Coast of Folly"

Scout, the famous horse of Jack Hoxie, co-stars with his master in "The White Outlaw," a "western" which will be at the Covina theater tonight (Friday) and tomorrow.

Coming to the local theater for three days—Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday—is the popular actress, Gloria Swanson, in her first dual role picture, "The Coast of Folly." The main role is that of Joyce Gathway, young and beautiful society girl. The other characterization is Joyce's mother, first as Madeline Gathway and in the latter part of the story as the Countess de Tauron.

A picture which created so much interest in Covina when shown some time ago that its return was requested will be shown Wednesday night only, "The Lost World." The story is by Sir Conan Doyle, and part of the action is supposed to have taken place 10,000,000 years ago. "The Half Way Girl," coming here Thursday night, has a big supporting cast, including such celebrities as Hobart Bosworth, Sam Hardy, Tully Marshall, Sally Crute, and Charles Wellesley.
